SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING. Held Last Evening But Little Business

Accomplished. Special to the Scranton Tribune PITTSTON, Pa., May 4.—The special session of the town council at the Hook and Ladder company's parlor on Charles street was attended by all members except Knowles and Reap. The board of health saked for an appropriation of $850.00, the amount they claim necessary for salaries and incidental expense for the current year.

As there was but one member of the board of health present, Alex Sloan, and he could not tell the different expenses which would be incurred, action was deferred until the next meeting, which will be held on Monday evening at the newly renovated council cham-

Brief News Notes Cut Short for Quick

Perusal. PITTSTON, Pa., May 4 -These common pleas jurors from this vicinity were drawn yesterday to report June 4: Pittston, J. H. Keast, merchant; Jones Whitehouse, stone mason. West Pittston, John A. Law, gentleman; James Ehret, gentleman; Amon Armstrong, gentleman. Pittston township, William Castner, miner. Exeter, M. Rozelle, farmer.

Jacob Pfingston, of the Fourth ward, has entered suit against the borough for $2, due as fees for making arrests. Mr. Pfingston was a member of the police force last year and made two arrests, during the temporary absence of Burgess Maloney. The prisoners were giving a hearing before the acting bur-gess, who, Mr. Pfingston alteges, refused to pay him the usual fee paid officers for arrests made.

It was reported about town this morning that there are two cases of small-pox in an Italian family at Smithville. A well known resident of the village with whom we talked had heard the report, but could not verify it. He said he believed there was no truth in the rumor.—Gazette. George B. Reap returned from New York last evening. James McDermott and Henry Weeks visited among Wilkes-Barre friends

Patrick Gallagher, of the firm of Gallaguer & Fay, returned from the cities last night where he has been making summer purchases. Edwin Tanbill, of Pittsburg, paid a flying visit to his brother, J. A. Tau-hill, the well known foundryman of this piace on Thursday.

Things to Avoid. The Etude advises that piano pupils resolve to-Avoid using the pedal too much. Avoid beginning your practice with pieces instead of technics. Avoid having your piano stool too

Avoid benting time with the foot. Avoid playing over the parts of the piece not given. Let them alone and so have new music for the next lesson. Avoid striking wrong low bass notes.

Avoid making a dotted note too short and the short note following it too long. Avoid bringing excuses instead of a well learned lesson to your recitation. Avoid playing loud between accents.

Avoid stopping on the end of a group of quick notes instead of closely connecting it with the following long note. Avoid a sidewise twisting of the hand in scale playing.

Avoid the easy parts of your pieces, but concentrate your work on the hard

Avoid hesitating in your playing of pieces that are even fairly well learned. Avoid trashy music.

Avoid a hastening of time on easy places and a slowing up on hard places. Avoid all half way work and poor

Avoid inattention when taking your Avoid missing your lessons.

Avoid wasting time in playing anything outside of your lessons during your practice periods.

The Rose Sleeve.

The rose sleeve is a charming finish for young girl's evening dresses of silk, satin or moire. It is made of chiffon or of mousseline de soie in a series of puffs around a close fitted silk lining, and when the arm is passed through these puffs it falls about the opening like the half closed petals of a rose. It reaches to the elbow or only half way there, as best suits the arm.

What Fad Parties Are.

Perhaps you have heard about fad parties. They are positively the latest dissipation of those who live to kill time, says the New York Herald. The people who are invited to a fad party are expected to bring some object which represents their pet fad, and each must talk about that fad, tell the reason of its existence and anything of interest about it. For instance, one guest has a mania for collecting scarfpins and doscribes some of the experiences gained in picking these up. Another has a fad for collecting old china and describes the plates and tencups which line her drawing room, telling many amoving stories of her experiences in farmhouses and dingy little shops. Another discounsed upon fans, flutterias; meanwhile a priceless trifle of lace and paint and fluff. The third brought one of her scrapbooks, and a treasure house it proved to be. For years she has been collecting
